SAMPLE ANSWER · BAND 8

I • Intro (who)	I'd like to talk about Malala Yousafzai, who is widely regarded as one of the most inspiring young women in the world. She's a Pakistani education activist, and she became the youngest ever winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.
P • What they do	As for what she does, she campaigns for girls' right to go to school. She has set up a fund to help girls in different countries, she speaks at big events like the United Nations and she has written books about her life. She's a role model for millions of students.
P • How I learned about her	When it comes to how I learned about her, I came across her story in an English lesson at school. Our teacher showed us a documentary, and I was so moved that I went home and read her memoir in one weekend. Ever since, I have kept up with her news online.
E • Reason 1	The first reason I admire her is that she overcame adversity. She was shot by extremists when she was only fifteen, yet she recovered and carried on speaking out. What impresses me most is that she never became bitter.
E • Reason 2	On top of that, she truly makes a difference. Thanks to her campaigns, many girls who were told to stay at home are now in classrooms, and her work has paved the way for others to speak up. Despite being so famous, she still sounds humble and down-to-earth.
W • Wrap-up	So, all in all, she shows that age is no barrier to changing the world. Whenever I feel lazy about my own studies, I think of her, and I draw inspiration from her courage.
