- first impression • compliments • confidence
- built to last • quality over quantity

SAMPLE ANSWER • BAND 8

I • Intro (what)	I'd like to talk about my navy-blue wool coat, which is easily my favourite piece of clothing. It has a classic cut, a little long, with big buttons, and it looks smart without trying too hard.
P • When I wear it	I wear it mostly from November to March, when Tashkent gets freezing. It's a versatile piece, so I wear it over jeans for university and over a shirt and tie for formal events. Whenever I throw it on, I know I'm ready for whatever the day brings.
P • Where I got it	As for where I got it, I found it in a second-hand shop near the old town while I was on a tight budget. Never before had I tried on a coat that fitted like a glove from the very first second. It cost less than a pair of trainers, yet it's worth every penny.
E • Reason 1	The first reason I love it is that it helps me make a good first impression. People often compliment me when I wear it, and that boosts my confidence before presentations or interviews.
E • Reason 2	Another reason is that it's built to last. What matters most to me is quality over quantity, so I'd rather own one great coat than five cheap ones that wear out after a single winter.
W • Wrap-up	So, all in all, it isn't about fashion for me. If it hadn't been for that lucky afternoon at the market, I would have kept buying cheap jackets, and I'd never have discovered how good a well-made coat can feel.
